The Industrial difference:

The Industrial Cabinet Saw is engineered for heavy duty cycle environments. It comprises a thicker cast iron table for added stability and precision as well as thicker gauge steel in the cabinet, rails, tube and fence, compared to the Contractor and Professional models. Larger hand wheels for easy adjustment and two large access doors for quick access and maintenance are also some of the additional features.

Stops On Contact With Skin

On contact, an electrical signal on the blade changes because the human body is conductive. The saw detects that change.

A spring pushes a brake into the blade, stopping the blade in milliseconds.

Force from the stop drops the blade below the table. The saw shuts off the motor.
